NATURE OF WORK:

Under the direct supervision of the Disaster Program Manager (DPM) and the general supervision of the Community Outreach & Response Services (CORS) Administrator, the incumbent in this position will provide community-based outreach, psychological first aid, and psycho-education to disaster survivors, individuals experiencing acute trauma, and identified special populations; work directly in the field, visiting homes, community centers, and/or businesses to reach individuals.

DUTIES:

- Proactively engage individuals, families, and organizations (schools, businesses, first responders) in areas impacted by disaster.
- Provide non-judgmental, trauma-informed emotional support and crisis intervention.
- Educate survivors about normal stress reactions to abnormal events and provide coping strategies to build resilience.
- Conduct initial assessments of behavioral health needs in the field.
- Connect survivors with community agencies, disaster relief resources (i.e., FEMA, Red Cross) and specialized mental health services.
- Maintain accurate, confidential records of contact and services provided in accordance with local and federal requirements.
- Prepares and submits a report to the Disaster Program Manager (DPM) as required.
- Performs other duties as assigned.

QUALIFICATION REQUIREMENTS:

Education: Any combination equivalent to an Associate's degree in psychology, social work, public/behavioral health, or sociology from an accredited college institution.

Experience: Minimum one (1) year experience in community outreach, peer support, public or behavioral health, or social services.

Other: Working with high-risk groups, including the elderly, homeless individuals, or socially disadvantaged communities; delivering services outside of an office setting, such as emergency shelters, disaster recovery centers, or door-to-door canvassing.

Licenses/Certifications: Must have a valid CNMI driver's license.

KNOWLEDGE/ SKILL/ ABILITIES:

- Crisis Intervention — Familiarity with providing anonymous, non-clinical, psychoeducation support rather than formal therapy.
- Disaster Psychology – Knowledge of the psychological phases of disasters, acute stress responses, and normal reactions to abnormal events.

CHCC is an equal opportunity employer. We consider all applicants for all positions without regard to race, color, religion, sex, disability, age, mental or veteran status, the presence of a non-job-related medical condition or disability, or any legal protected status.

- Community Resources – Deep familiarity with disaster-specific aid (e.g., FEMA programs, SBA loans, Red Cross) alongside long-term local housing, food, and medical resources.
- At-Risk Populations – Understanding the complexities of severe mental illness, homelessness, trauma, and domestic/street violence.
- Cultural Competency – Understanding the specific demographics, traditions, language needs, and historic vulnerabilities of the disaster-affected community.
- Psychological First Aid (PFA) - Proficiency in stabilizing distressed survivors, assessing immediate needs, and promoting safety and coping without re-traumatizing individuals.
- Active Listening – Skilled in reflective communication to normalize survivors’ emotional responses and build rapid trust in high-stress field settings.
- Resource Navigation – Ability to quickly connect survivors with complex federal, state, and local disaster recovery systems.
- Public Speaking and Presentation – Competency in delivering informal group briefings, stress-management workshops, and community flyers to diverse audiences.
- Emotional Resilience – Ability to maintain professional boundaries and manage personal stress while absorbing community trauma and widespread devastation.
- High Adaptability – Capacity to work effectively in highly fluid, unstructured environments, such as disaster recovery centers, shelters, or door-to-door canvas routes.
- Autonomy and Initiative – Ability to canvas neighborhoods independently, self-start community engagement, and identify pockets of unserved populations.
- Collaboration – Ability to work effectively in a team, often in groups, and with external partners.
